THERE will be enough Republicans in the next house of representatives to pass a protective tariff law, and the good senators will help them push it through.

ONCE more we hear that a tariff is a tax. Those Democratic editors, who, coward like, feared to mention it a few weeks ago, are saying all sorts of naughty things about it.

Now LET the preparations for that extra session of congress be made. They can't increase the tariff on crockery any too soon for East Liverpool. The gate has been open long enough.

THE county ticket chosen on Tuesday could not have been made up of better men. They are trustworthy and honest, and will fill the positions to which they have been elected with credit to the

BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

Business is brightening and the next few months will see a revival. The press of the east is in position to know, and is practically unanimous in the expression that confidence is already restored. Benjamin Harrison said in one of his campaign speeches that the prospect of a Republican victory never did hurt business, and the events through which we are passing might prompt Republican victories mean revivals in It may require some months to reach the potting industry with all its force, but it will come

DELAY IS DANGEROUS.

If Mr. McKinley has the good of the country at heart, and no one for a moment doubts his sincerity, he should arrange to call congress in special session as soon after the inauguration as it is possible. We want the Wilson bill repealed, and a protective measure placed upon the statute books in its place. Every importing house realizes that Republican victory and protective tariff are more synonymous, if it were possible, than ever this year, and manufactured articles will cross the ocean in great numbers. The crockery dealers in New York will fill their stores with thousands of packages, and every dollar they have or will be able to borrow will be put in stock. At the low duty they will have an advantage that may endure for several years since they have been buying heavily for months. The nomination of McKinley early in the summer convinced them of his election, and they prepared for what they knew must come in the fall. If congress can put down the bars early next spring, and shut out at last a portion of this foreign ware the American potters will benefit. Every day of delay means loss to the potting industry, and the people dependent upon it. The importer has had it his own way long enough. Now let the American have an

This message was received by Mr. Bryan a few minutes after he had reered in the parlor and reading room of their unpretentious residence. The receipt of the telegram created no scene whatever, and one unacquainted with the facts would never have suspected, from the surface indications, the importance of the occasion, or that the chief actor in the drama had more than a passing interest in it. While writing the messages, and after it was completed Mr. Bryan chatted pleasantly with with the newspaper correspondents who surrounded him, indicating by his manner that he felt relieved to have the matter definitely determined, even though the result was against him. He also showed very plainly that Senator Jones' message was no surprise to him, as it indeed was not for those who have been in his confidence and knew he had considered the battle as practically lost ever since the first night after the election. He has, however, felt that it would be both discourteous and unwise to give out any intimation to this effect till the national committee had

Mr. Bryan announced that he would today issue an address, but he declined to make any statement or to submit to an interview, further than to say that the fight for silver had just begun. It is known to be his purpose to devote much of his time in the future to educating the people to the acceptance of his views on the financial question, and it is his intention to sound the keynote in the paper which he will issue to-morrow. He will dwell upon the efmorrow. He will dwell upon the effects of a single gold standard and will urge the advocates of bimetallism to maintain their organizations and use their utmost endeavors in behalf of this cause until it wins at the polls.

Mr. Bryan declined to outline his future plans or to give his opinion as to the causes which led to his defeat. It is quite certain, however, that he will be tempted by some of the flattering offers which are coming to him to leave Lincoln. He will remain about his home for the next few weeks, recuper ating, for while in no way exhausted by the duties of the campaign, he com fesses to a feeling of languor as a result of the arduous labors of the past fou months. It is also believed that Mr. Bryan considers that the result of the election has in it much to encourage the advocates of independent action by this country on the question of the free coinage of silver.

Mrs. Bryan received the news with quite as much composure as did her husband. She had never felt the same confidence of success that he felt and has from the first, while not without hope, been prepared for the news which Mr. Jones' brief message brought.

Ports calls the people of Columbiana county fools because they did not vote

Ports dies hard, but he dies nevertheless, politically, and that is all the people of this county wanted.

THE Bryanites figured and figured, but they could not make their candidate win. Too bad, wasn't it?

THE Republican who sent Mr. Bryan a NEWS REVIEW coon has certainly been studying the eternal fitness of been studying the eternal fitness of things.

THERE will be enough Republicans in the next house of representatives to pass a protective tariff law, and the good a protective tariff law, and through. senators will help them push it through.

ONCE more we hear that a tariff is a tax. Those Democratic editors, who, coward like, feared to mention it a few weeks ago, are saying all sorts of ONCE more we hear that a tariff is a naughty things about it.

Now LET the preparations for that extra session of congress be made. They can't increase the tariff on crockery any too soon for East Liverpool. The gate has been open long enough. has been open long enough.

THE county ticket chosen on Tuesday could not have been made up of better men. They are trustworthy and honest, and will fill the positions to which they have been elected with credit to the

BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

Business is brightening and the next few months will see a revival. The press of the east is in position to know, and is practically unanimous in the expression that confidence is already restored. Benjamin Harrison said in one of his campaign speeches that the prospect of a Republican victory never did hurt business, and the events through which we are passing might prompt him to say the next time he talks that plants nor animals. If food and water Republican victories mean revivals in business. The wave has already started. but it will come

DELAY IS DANGEROUS.

If Mr. McKinley has the good of the country at heart, and no one for a moment doubts his sincerity, he should arrange to call congress in special session as soon after the inauguration as it is possible. We want the Wilson bill repealed, and a protective measure placed upon the statute books in its place. Every importing house realizes that Republican victory and protective tariff are more synonymous, if it were possible, than ever this year, and manufactured articles will cross the ocean in great numbers. The crockery dealers in New York will fill their stores with thousands of packages, and every dollar they have or will be able to borrow will be put in stock. At the low duty they will have an advantage that may endure for several years since they have been buying heavily for months. The nomination of McKinley early in the summer convinced them of his election, and they prepared for what they knew must come in the fall. If congress can put down the bars early next spring, and shut out at last a portion of this foreign ware the American potters will benefit. Every day of delay means loss to the potting industry, and the people dependent upon it. The importer has had it his own way long enough. Now let the American have an inning.

Excursion to Pittsburg.

Next Saturday, Nov. 7, Republicans will hold a big demonstration in Pittsburg, to ratify election of Major McKinley, for which the Pennsylvania company will sell excursion tickets one fare for the round trip from Alliance, Bellaire, Sharon, Youngstown, Dennison, Wheeling, Washington and intermediate tickets stations. Good going and returning on regular trains Nov. 7. *

Blame It on the Doctor.

Ex-Congressman Ikirt seems to have talked the life out of free silver in his speech in East Liverpool. At any rate, there was a large increase in the Republican vote in that city.-Salem

Even if it were possible for man to live without breathing air he could no: exist on the earth if it were without an atmosphere. Plants derive carbon, the most important element of their food, from the vir, and without plants there could be no food for animals, and therefore no human beings. Water also comes from the atmosphere, but if there were no water there could be neither could be supplied in some other way, the world would still be unhabitable by there would be no winds, and conse quently no waves or ocean currents. The sea-if we may suppose one to have been supplied by some unknown cause -would be a stagnant pool, uninhabitable by seaweed or fish. - Exchange.

THE HOUSE REPUBLICAN.

A Table Prepared from the Latest Re-

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 .- A table prepared from the telegraphic returns shows the election of 20 Republicans to the next house, 124 Democrats, 19 Populists, fusionists and Independents, a number of which perhaps should be slightly increased, as a few of those classified as Democrats have independ ent leanings. Some districts are in doubt, and no attempt has been made to include Washington and South Dakota and three districts in Texas in the list, owing to the meagre and conflict-ing returns. So Says Bryan of Silver Fight-Congrat ulates McKinley, LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 6 .- "The fight has just been commenced." Thus spoke William J. Bryan when asked if he considered that the result of the election had been a serious blow to bimetallism. He had just sent a message to Major McKinley, conceding his election and tendering his congratulations

Mr. Bryan had just received the sigon short time for months.

Louisville, Nov. 6.—Many of the wholesale dealers and manufacturers of this city are busy filling orders that have been received in the past two sage from Senator Jones, chairman of sage from Senator Jones, chairman of the Democratic national committee, informing him that he did not consider it wise to longer withhold the concession of McKinley's election. This message was received by Mr.

Bryan a few minutes after he had reand turned with his wife from a stroll and the in the presence of a dozen callers gathered in the parlor and reading room of their unpretentious residence. The re-ceipt of the telegram created no scene whatever, and one unacquainted with the facts would never have suspected, from the surface indications, the im-portance of the occasion, or that the chief actor in the drama had more than CLEVELAND, Nov.

her, was given to the press. While writing the messages, and after it was completed Mr. Bryan chatted pleasantly with the newspaper correspondents who surrounded him, indicating by his manner that he felt relieved to have the matter definitely determined, even though the result was against him. He also showed very plainly that Senator Jones' message was no surprise to him. as it indeed was not for those who have been in his confidence and knew he had considered the battle as practically lost ever since the first night after the election. He has, however, felt that it would be both discourteous and unwise to give out any intimation to this effect till the national committee had

Mr. Bryan announced that he would today issue an address, but he declined to make any statement or to submit to an interview, further than to say that the fight for silver had just begun. It is known to be his purpose to devote much of his time in the future to educating the people to the acceptance of his views on the financial question, and it is his intention to sound the keynote in the paper which he will issue to-morrow. He will dwell upon the effects of a single gold standard and will urge the advocates of bimetallism to maintain their organizations and use their utmost endeavors in behalf of this cause until it wins at the polls.

Mr. Bryan declined to outline his future plans or to give his opinion as to the causes which led to his defeat. It is quite certain, however, that he will be tempted by some of the flattering offers which are coming to him to leave Lincoln. He will remain about his home for the next few weeks, recuperating, for while in no way exhausted by the duties of the campaign, he cones to a feeling of languor as a result of the ardueus labors of the past four months. It is also believed that Mr. Bryan considers that the result of the election has in it much to encourage the advocates of independent action by this country on the question of the free coinage of silver.

Mrs. Bryan received the news with quite as much composure as did her husband. She had never felt the same confidence of success that he felt and has from the first, while not without hope, been prepared for the news which Mr. Jones' brief message brought.

THE CHEERFUL MAN.

Things That Lighten Life For Hunters In

There is a kind of man who never lacks camping companions. He may be rich or poor, big or little. He may be so weak as to be hardly able to carry his rifle and never able to bring a stick of wood for the campfire. He is wanted, nevertheless. The campers call him the jovial man, the one who never sulks, but always smiles. He is cheerful when the clouds weep and the campers are dismal. He laughs when he misses easy shots. He grins when the smoke gets into his eyes and says that the nubs and sticks in the camp bed are good, because they

There are guns to drag around and owners to say things. There is a food supply to pick at, and fire to meddle with, pipes to break and tin dishes to rattle. It doesn't take much to cheer up a sad camp, if only the right visitor comes along. The arrival of a smiling woman from another camp, one day when the rain poured, did that once up on Moose river. She had a rifle over her shoulder and three dripping partridges in her hand. Her hunting suit was dripping wet, and her once curly bangs hung down over her eyes. Every complaining man of the camp leaped to his feet, and a great heap of green birch logs was soon cut and sizzling in the fire. The gloom was dispelled like so much smoke. In a few minutes she was standing near the fire steaming as her clothes dried. When she left, two hours later, every one was as happy as a cat by a grate fire. - New York Sun.

Miles on the Indian.

A champion has risen up for the In dian in the person of General Miles. The Indian fighter has become the mos earnest and aggressive of Indian defenders. This fact and an energetic defense of General Custer are the salient points in the Miles memoirs. In his opinion the red man has distinguished himself as diplomat, statesman and warrior and may be good even while he is alive. In speaking of Custer, General Miles says, "I have no patience with those who would kick a dead lion," and he attributes the lion's death in part to general ignorance throughout the army as to the strength of the enemy, and in part to the failure of Major Reno to assume responsibility for the movements of his forces. -- Chicago Journal.

A BLIND TRAVELER. He Finds His Way Alone Along the Roads

Gilbert Watkins is the name of a blind man who lives on Brush street, near Taylor. Although he is so blind he interfere with his ability to travel. In fact, Watkins does more traveling than of it without any one to guide him. Watkins, when he is in the city, can be seen standing on the corners of some of the down town streets, where he sells notions and other small articles in order to gain a livelihood. But he does not stay long at a time, because he likes to visit different places and meet different people. He always attends the different celebrations and flestas, where he say he is sure to enjoy himself.

When Watkins wants to go any place the first time, he gets some one to guide him, if possible, but after that he can go alone at any time he wishes. He has been over nearly all of the roads in California, and only a few months ago he walked from this city to Los Angeles by himself. He says he is always well treated and finds people only too willing to tell him what is going on.

According to Watkins' story, he is able to do these remarkable things solely by his memory and says that he can be taken anywhere and made to turn as many corners as desired, and that he can find his way back without assistance. In this respect he seems to have the same faculty a cat is said to have and exercises it in the same way.

When the blind man desires to go to a certain place he has never been taken before, he is led to it, and as he goes along he takes mental note of all the objects he passes. Here is a rough crossing, here some asphaltum pavement, here a dirt road with some stones on it. here some water, etc. When he wants to return, he takes them in reverse order and has no trouble.

"The reason I can do this," he says, 'is because I don't see a lot of things that distract me. You could do the same thing easy enough. Maybe in a mile I would only have to remember a few objects. It is just the same as if a man who could see was taken through a dark alley, but every once in awhile was given a glimpse of his surroundings by a light being turned on. He could remember what he saw without any trouble, but if he saw a thousand other things he could not. I know just how where I live and can walk to the place without even using my cane. Of course I am helped a great deal by the people I pass, because they know I am blind and always make room for me." -San

"CALLERS" NOT DESIRED.

Writer's Reasons For Thinking "Visit ing" Intolerable.

Of what earthly use is "company?" You probably see your neighbors once a week, meeting them on the public highways, and if you nod pleasantly and speak a word or two of the weather and of the health of the family, has not everything been done that our necessities require or formality can reasonably demand? If we have business or need information that others can give us, go and ask of them. Be brief, but to the point, and, leaving with what is desired, carry away also their blessing. To go to another's house, to request of its inmates, one or all, to sit for half an hour or longer and listen to your platitudes, and-coming away-lie to them about a pleasant call, is intolerable. Yet there are thousands who do this

Why should I leave my occupation, be it loafing even, and give my attention to some man or woman who is thoughtless enough to "call?" The actuating motive never appears. Much is spoken and nothing said. I receive no worthy thought to profit by or increase the probability of a beatific eternity. The familiar well gnawed bones of doctrine fall from the devil's table. Usually I am forced to breathe at such a time a gossip poisoned atmosphere. This "call" is another idea of civility, and I am compelled, it appears, to be a victim of his or her whim. If I refuse, as I have done point blank, to present myself, I am called a boor and all manner of ugly names. - Lippincott's

It has been one of the closest contests that the people have been called on to determine in recent years. We have in which we know there had been many frauds, and from which there were evidences of tampering with the returns. He Says the Tariff Cut Quite a Figure In NEW YORK, Nov. 6.-Chairman

Hanna, in talking to a reporter, said: "During no part of the campaign had any doubt of Major McKinley's election and the success of the principles involved in the national platform. No, I am not surprised at the result in any particular state or section. I felt confident that the good sense of the people

The statement of Senator Jones, which claimed the election for Bryan, was shown to Mr. Hanna, who laughed and said that 277 votes are sure for Mc Kinley without counting any of the doubtful states. He was eager for the latest news from Indiana, Kentucky and several other states, but again de-clared that nothing could change the result.

"Yes, I am gratified at the defeat of Altgeld and his crowd," continued Mr. Hanna. "I think that the dangerous doctrine annunciated by these people will hereafter be without effect, save among the very worst elements."

Mr. Hanna was asked to explain the attitude of the western farmers. He As for the labor vote, that, he said, had and quotes the money plank of the St. been divided and large gains were made by the Republicans where they wer east expected "Indeed, the tariff figured very ex-

"In spite of the immense agitation against trusts, capital and great prom-ises, labor saw through it all and refused to give its vote to the owners of the silver mines. But, for Europe, Mc Kinley's election is no cause for joy."

Mr. Hanna's attention was called to the rise in American securities abroad since election. He regarded this as a very good augury and thought that the se would be a permanent one.
"Do you feel that the silver question has been settled by this election?" Hanna was asked. "I feel certain that it is the beginning of the end," he replied. "The election must result in the most serious consideration of that question."

Mr. Hanna paid a pleasing tribute to the gold Democrats for their aid. Mr. Hanna gave it as his opinion that the final trip through Illinois and the other middle western states of Bryan had redounded to the advantage of the Republican ticket.

GOLD GETS PLENTIFUL.

Big Amounts Offered For Currency s

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 .- Information received at the treasury department shows that large amounts of gold are being offered at the several sub-treasuries in exchange for currency, no stip ulation being made as to legal tenders. One million in gold was offered at Boston, and the sub-treasurer telegraphed the secretary for instructions, stating that the current work was somewhat behind owing to the late flurry, and further that the payment of that amount of currency would leave the sub-treasury there inconveniently short. Instructions were returned authorizing the acceptance of half the amount offered. At New York the sub-treasurer, find, on an average, more than three in it is understood, has given notice that which the bridge of the nose descends he would not receive gold in exchange

M'KINLEY ABOUT AGAIN.

Seems Entirely Recovered From the Strain of the Campaign.

CANTON, O., Nov. 6 .- Major McKinley was about at an early hour, showing claimed the election on our advices ftom his old-time vigor and appearing enstates that were admittedly in doubt, tirely recovered from the intense physical and nervous strain of the last few days. Although a drizzling rain was falling, he hoisted his umbrella and with a friend took a walk down street, the first outdoor exercise since the election. Mrs. McKinley was sufficiently recovered from her atttck of grippe to be around the house.

Major McKinley's friends who have marvelled at the work he Las done and "Bryan electors have been chosen from all of the states south of the Potomac and Ohio except West Virginia, and all those west of the Missouri except California and Oregon. It is not thought that he will accept any other invitations at this time, east or west, and his visit to Cleveland will be a quiet one for rest for himself.

It claims that McKinley's election is ings he could not. I know just how said they were misguided on the money question at first, but came around later. a victory for international bimettallism Louis platform.

Continuing, it says: "In these circumstances and in view of the strong agitation for free silver or natural bi metallism in state and fact, this agita-tion is likely to be maintained and de-veloped, and a genuine and determined effort upon the part of the new government may be confidently anticipated to bring about an international bimetallic agreement for the opening of the mints of the various countries to silver as well as to gold. The recent contest has brought home to the people of this country the vital importance of the monetary question and the grave dan-gers which threaten the industrial, commercial and financial interests of Great Britain so long as it is not settled on international lines.

"The unreasonable attitude of this country in the past, in the efforts to arrainge a settlement, is mainly responsible for the attempt just witnessed to induce the United States to act alone and for the consequent unrest and disturbance in commercial and financial circles; therefore, it is earnestly hoped that this country and the other great powers of Europe will hearily co-operate with the United States in their endeavor to place the metallic money of the world upon a permanent, sound and scientific basis

PROUD OVER NEBRASKA Mr. Bryan's Statement Concerning th

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 6.—Mr. Bryan has given out the following on the situation in Nebraska: "The result in Nebraska is very gratifying. We have had great obstacles to overcome, and yet in spite of all these obstacles we have secured a majority ticket, and have elected the entire state ticket, and at least four and possibly five members of congress out of six, and have elected a good working majority in both branches of the legislature. The Democrats, Populists and Silver Republicans have worked together in perfect harmony and they share the victory together. The gold standard Democrats by collusion with Republican. secured a place on the ballot as Democrats and deceived a few voters, but the attempted fraud was called to the at-tention of the voters and the evil effects reduced to a minimum.

"It is safe to say that almost the entire Palmer vote was cast by mistake, because the gold Democrats voted almost unanimously for the Republican candidate. I am proud of Nebraska and grateful to the friends in this state weather, being then more ill natured anticipation of a revival of business, is and quarrelsome than at any other time.

Mr. Bryan declined to express an opinion on the result of the election even to his intimate friends, but it is evident from his manner that he considers the chances all against him, but he regards it improper to give out an authorized statement until the result is known beyond any possibility of a doubt. Some of his friends here still profess to be hopeful, but the excitement has entirely subsided.

DISMISSAL OF OFFICIALS.

All Took an Active Part In the Past Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 .- The treasury officials decline to make public their reasons for the dismissal of Messrs. Fleming, Doyle, Ryan, Adams and Brantly. All of them took an active part in the campaign in advocating the election of Mr. Bryan, but there is reason for the belief that this fact alone was not responsible for their leaving the service. It is stated that the dismissal of one or more of them was under discussion several months ago for reasons entirely apart from politics, and that the action just taken was regarded by the secretary as for the good of the service.

It is also stated that the secretary has no intention of removing clerks simply because of their free silver views or be-cause they voted for Mr. Bryan. These are rights which Mr. Carlisle fully respects, but he insists that when the clerks carry their political activity to the point of going on the stump and at the least openly identifying themselves with others who viciously condemn the public acts of the president and himself it is cause for removal. There have been rumors to the effect that Assistant Secretary of War Doe was included in the list of offensive partisans, but it is believed his removal is not contemplated. He confined himself to a statement of his intention to adhere to the Demo cratic party which was contained in a personal letter to a Democratic leader in Wisconsin, and this letter eventually was made public in the press. It contained no reflections upon the administration or its policy, and even recorded the writer's personal dissent from the Chicago silver plank.

The Grecian Portrait.

The Grecian portrait seems the perfection of the human type to us, and artists copy it, although it is actually rare. In it the line of the nose is more or less perfectly the prolongation of the of 10,000 or 15,000 for our electoral line of the forehead. The hollow at the root of the nose is almost effaced, and the prominence of the nose is softened. The absolute Grecian profile would therefore be represented in a drawing by a single continuous line for the forehead and nose. Yet another condition is essential for obtaining the fine Grecian profile. The forehead should not be receding. This marks the distinction between the Grecian and the Egyptian profile. - Popular Science Monthly.

If I refuse, ulation being made as to legal tenders. One million in gold was offered at Boston, and the sub-treasurer telegraphed the secretary for instructions, stating that the current work was somewhat behind owing to the late flurry, and further that the payment of that amount of currency would leave the sub-treasury there inconveniently short. Instructions were returned authorizing the acceptance of half the amount ofing 100 heads at random, one will not fered. At New York the sub-treasurer, it is understood, has given notice that find, on an average, more than three in which the bridge of the nose descends he would not receive gold in exchange

M'KINLEY ABOUT AGAIN.

Seems Entirely Recovered From the Strain of the Campaign.

CANTON, O., Nov. 6 .- Major McKinley was about at an early hour, showing tirely recovered from the intense physical and nervous strain of the last few days. Although a drizzling rain was falling, he hoisted his umbrella and with a friend took a walk down street, the first outdoor exercise since the election. Mrs. McKinley was sufficiently recovered from her atttck of grippe to be around the house

Major McKinley's friends who have marvelled at the work he i.as done and the endurance he has shown for past five months have been steadfastly urging him to take a trip. He has invitations from relatives in Chicago for an after election visit, and has decided upon the advice of Mrs. McKinley's physician to take a run up to Cleve-land, where he will be the guest of Colonel and Mrs. Myron T. Herrick for several days. What day he will leave has not been decided upon, but it will probably be the first of next week. It is not thought that he will accept any other invitations at this time, east or west, and his visit to Cleveland will be a quiet one for rest for himself.

The major went over the latest returns and his private dispatches, and found in them nothing to change the general view of the situation. Congratulations poured in throughout the night, many of them being cable mes-

Later Major McKinley, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Smith, took his one-horse surrey for a drive to his mother's home. He 'wore his heavy ulster buttoned to the chin. The group on the walk gave him a cheer as he passed, to which he bowed acknowledgment. Some of the many flowers sent in were carried along for the aged mother and for some of Mrs. McKinley's sick friends.

Four bicycle riders, who left Indianapolis Tuesday night as soon as assurance was given of McKinley's election, arrived yesterday. They had ridden night and day along muddy roads and their uniforms were coated with mud. The major saw them and received a congratulatory message from a large In-dianapolis establishment. Electric connection had been made between Major McKinley's home and a large factory at Tonawanda, N. Y., by which the major touched a button and set the factory wheels in motion. He received a congratulatory telegram in

"To what do you attribute Republican success," was asked Major McKin-

''Oh, I don't care to be interviewed," said the major, "but I will say that I think the patriotic efforts of the men of both the old parties have brought about the result. Ardent and devoted as have been the efforts of Republicans everywhere, equally pronounced and helpful was the attitude of the sound money Democrats. Then the press of the country, the intelligent and enthusiastic efforts of the great journals of both parties have been a mighty factor in the result and aid to the Republican

TO PROMOTE BIMETALLISM. A Manifesto Issued by Advocates I London

LONDON, Nov 6 .- Members of the Bimetallic league have issued a manifesto. The document is signed by Messrs. A. L. Denham, H. R. Greenfell, Robert Barclay, H. C. Gibbs and H. MacNeil.

Continuing, it says: "In these circumstances and in view of the strong agitation for free silver or natural bi-metallism in state and fact, this agitation is likely to be maintained and de-veloped, and a genuine and determined effort upon the part of the new government may be confidently anticipated to bring about an international bimetallic agreement for the opening of the mints of the various countries to silver as well as to gold. The recent contest brought home to the people of this country the vital importance of the monetary question and the grave dan-gers which threaten the industrial, comercial and financial interests of Great Britain so long as it is not settled on international lines. "The unreasonable attitude of this country in the past, in the efforts to arrainge a settlement, is mainly responsible for the attempt just witnessed to induce the United States to act alone and for the consequent unrest and dis-turbance in commercial and financial circles; therefore, it is earnestly hoped that this country and the other great powers of Europe will hearily co-operate with the United States in their endeavor to place the metallic money of the world upon a permanent, sound and scientific basis.

PROUD OVER NEBRASKA. Mr. Bryan's Statement Concerning th Result There.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 6.-Mr. Bryan has given out the following on the situation in Nebraska:

"The result in Nebraska is very gratiobstacles we have secured a majority ticket, and at least four and possibly five members of congress out of six, and have elected a good working majority Democrats, Populists and Silver Republicans have worked together in perfect harmony and they share the tory together. The gold standard Democrats by collusion with Republican. secured a place on the ballot as Democrats and deceived a few voters, but the attempted fraud was called to the attention of the voters and the evil effects reduced to a minimum.

The people of Nebraska have cause for rejoicing. The good effect of our victory in this state will be felt for years to

Mr. Bryan declined to express an opinion on the result of the election even to his intimate friends, but it is evident from his manner that he considers the chances all against him, but he regards it improper to give out an authorized statement until the result is known beyond any possibility of a doubt. Some of his friends here still profess to be hopeful, but the excitement has entirely subsided.

DISMISSAL OF OFFICIALS.

All Took an Active Part In the Past

Campaign. WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 .- The treasury officials decline to make public their reasons for the dismissal of Messrs. Fleming, Doyle, Ryan, Adams and Brantly. All of them took an active part in the campaign in advocating the election of Mr. Bryan, but there is reason for the belief that this fact alone was not responsible for their leaving the service. It is stated that the dismissal of one or more of them was under discussion several months ago for reasons entirely apart from politics, and that the action just taken was regarded by the secretary as for the good of the It is also stated that the secretary has no intention of removing clerks simply because of their free silver views or because they voted for Mr. Bryan. These are rights which Mr. Carlisle fully respects, but he insists that when the clerks carry their political activity to the point of going on the stump and at the least openly identifying themselves with others who viciously condemn the public acts of the president and himself it is cause for removal. There have been rumors to the effect that Assist-ant Secretary of War Doe was included in the list of offensive partisans, but it is believed his removal is not contemplated.

He confined himself to a statement of his intention to adhere to the Demo cratic party which was contained in a personal letter to a Democratic leader in Wisconsin, and this letter eventually was made public in the press. It contained no reflections upon the administration or its policy, and even recorded the writer's personal dissent from the Chicago silver plank.

In it the line of the nose is more or less perfectly the prolongation of the of 10,000 or 15,000 for our electoral line of the forehead. The hollow at the ticket, and have elected the entire state root of the nose is almost effaced, and the prominence of the nose is softened. The absolute Grecian profile would therefore be represented in a drawing in both branches of the legislature. The by a single continuous line for the forehead and nose. Yet another condition is essential for obtaining the fine Grecian profile. The forehead should not be receding. This marks the distinction between the Grecian and the Egyptian profile. - Popular Science Monthly.
